Dear Madams,

We refer to Official Letter No. 194/2026/CVM/SEP/GEA-1 (“Official Letter”), dated June 3, 2026, through which you request clarifications from Braskem S.A. (“Braskem” or the “Company”), as follows:

“Dear Director,

We refer to the news article published on this date in the newspaper Valor Econômico, News section, under the headline: ‘Braskem may default on bond interest’, which includes the following statements:

While evaluating entering an out-of-court reorganization process, Braskem is not expected to settle the debt of USD 150 million related to interest payments on bonds issued abroad that mature in July, nor those maturing in August, according to Pipeline.

In light of the significant maturities the company will face starting in July, including interest payments on bonds due in 2028, 2030, 2031, 2041, and 2050 as early as next month, the company is seeking to negotiate support from one-third of creditors to be able to file an out-of-court restructuring before then. If such support is not obtained, a judicial reorganization is not discarded, sources said.

A non-payment of interest could, after a 30-day default period, trigger acceleration of the company’s debts. Therefore, the company is seeking an agreement with creditors to avoid a judicial reorganization scenario. However, it is not expected that Petrobras will rescue the company from this outcome by providing capital or pledging assets as collateral, said a source close to the negotiations.

In view of the above, we request that you clarify whether the news is true and, if so, explain the reasons why it was not considered a material fact, as well as comment on any additional information deemed relevant on the matter."

As disclosed by the Company in the Material Fact dated September 26, 2025, the Company engaged specialized financial and legal advisors to assist in preparing a comprehensive assessment of economic and financial alternatives aimed at optimizing its capital structure.

The analyses arising from this assessment are still ongoing, and the Company and its advisors have been making structured progress in discussions with the creditors' advisors, as reported in its interim financial information for the first quarter of 2026, released on May 13, 2026.

In the course of these efforts, the Company and its advisors are considering different alternatives, including potential measures for the rescheduling of its financial obligations and creditor protection mechanisms. Nevertheless, we clarify that, as of this date, there is no formal decision regarding the alternative (or set of alternatives) to be implemented.

Having provided the clarifications above, we remain at your disposal for any additional information you may require.
